

You can't block out feelings

If going online is making you feel down then talking to someone can help